

As a XM Radio subscriber I enjoy the mostly commercial free programming. I also enjoy the fact that I can travel from coast to coast and not have to change stations. Couple the above with XM's continuing program and service improvements you have winning combination. Not too mention all at a very reasonable monthly fee. It distresses me that the National Association of Broadcasters feels threatened by XM Radio's attempt to improve service while remaining a good value for the dollars spent. If the NAB and its members can not remain competitive then they should, unfortunately, go out of business. Not to mention that the NAB's petition 04-160 tramples XM's constitutional right to broadcast what its subscribers desire.

I urge the FCC to reject the National Association of Broadcasters petition 04-160.

Respectfully submitted,
Jerry Sanicky
